

Blessing Those Emerging Leaders

HARRIS WHEELER

If you are an emerging leader or responsible to foster the leadership gifts of others, our conversation with Harris Wheeler is an inspiration.

For Deeper Conversation

1. Harris Wheeler tells several stories of leaders who bless emerging leaders. Try to identify a similar story of how you were blessed by someone who added good soil and fertilizer for your ability to emerge. Try to identify a similar story of how you and/or your organization are helping others leaders find their way.
2. Harris grounds effective leadership development in character and personal and spiritual disciplines more than any specific curriculum. Do you agree? Why or why not? What would you add or change to what he says?
3. Can you identify 1-3 persons who need specific mentoring and guidance from you? How can you provide it in a substantive way?
4. Perhaps harder still, who are 1-3 persons from whom you need to learn – regardless of your position in the organization? How will you go about making this happen?
